

The air source units are visible in the North Elevation and West Elevation only.

In the East Elevation, the air source units are not visible as they are located directly behind the roof top access housing.

In the South Elevation, the air source units are not visible as they are located directly behind the photovoltaic panels.

In 3D view, the air source units are clearly visible as the view angle is looking down onto the application building.