ANALYSIS

Paragraph 002 to section 17a of the National Planning Practice Guidance (NPPG) states that:

'There is no statutory definition of 'non-material'. This is because it will be dependent on the context of the overall scheme – an amendment that is non-material in one context may be material in another. The local planning authority must be satisfied that the amendment sought is non-material in order to grant an application under section 96A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990'.

Therefore, the purpose of the application is to seek the Council's determination as to whether the changes to the previously approved plans are sufficiently material in their nature and in the context of the approved development so as to require a fresh planning permission or not. Non-material amendment applications are not an application for planning permission, do not result in the issuing of a new planning permission and relate only to the amendments sought.

The NPPG further adds that the issuing of an approval for a non-material amendment application: 'only relates to the non-material amendments sought and the notice of the decision should describe these. It is not a reissue of the original planning permission, which still stands. The two documents should be read together.'

Section 96A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 also allows for new conditions to be imposed, or existing conditions to be removed or altered in the issuing of a decision for a non-material amendment application.

The alteration of the flat canopy roof to a dual-pitched roof would visually alter the frontage of the building as seen from the street scene, resulting in an alteration to the character and appearance of the extension and host dwelling. This amendment to the plans is therefore considered to be a material change from the development previously approved and it would, therefore, constitute a material amendment to the original planning permission for the purposes of Section 96A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990.

RECOMMENDATION: Refuse

In accordance with the provisions of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended) and the Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2015, the revised proposal cannot be considered as a non-material amendment to the existing planning permission. The proposed alteration in roof form would represent a material change to the appearance of the extension and the character of the dwelling. The proposal will therefore require an application for planning permission.
