Elevation and Materiality proposals to be agreed with LPA -The building features three distinct elements: a contextual red brick section with a pitched roof facing Halifax Road, (A) contemporary grey brick volume. (B) Vibrant red circulation pathways dividing the spaces. (C) Red brick element pays homage to tradition, seamlessly blending with the neighborhood, while the grey brick portion represents modernity. The red metal panelling and staircase not only physically connect the two sections but also help fuse the historical and contemporary architectural styles, resulting in a harmonious and innovative composition. The proposed building along Halifax Road (A) thoughtfully incorporates features of neighboring terraced houses, including gable ends, red brick facades, and slate roofs. These elements establish a seamless visual connection between old and new, enhancing the neighborhood's character. This approach ensures that the new development blends cohesively with the existing neighborhood while adding a well designed, modern intervention along Halifax Road. The proposed blocks deeper into the site (B) nestle behind the contextual front facade and help to create a new modern urban square for the residents of Wuerdle Street. Flat roofs here allow for a sedum roof to increase biodiversity on site .
